THOMAS
and the CHRISTMAS
MOUNTAIN

It was Christmastime in Sodor! Thomas and Percy were going to lead the Christmas tour, and Bruno would carry the star for the tree. It was his Sodor Christmas tradition!

Thomas first brought the passengers to see the lighthouse.

"It looks like the world's biggest candy cane!" Thomas said.

Then they visited the farm.
The cows were wearing pretty bells around their necks.

"They sound like jingle bells!"
Thomas peeped.

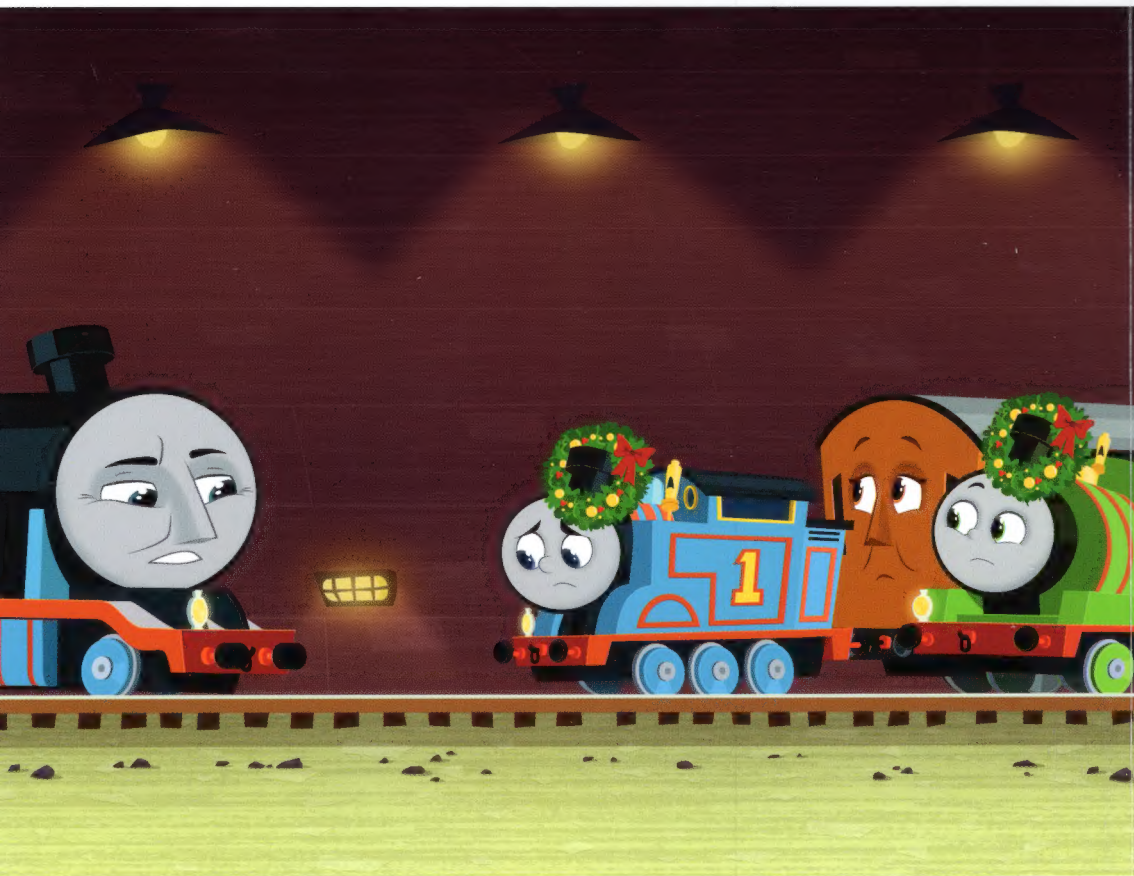

Thomas and Percy climbed to the top of Cannonball Curve.

"Don't worry, Percy. It will be like sledding down a big hill," Thomas tooted. The passengers cheered.

"Can we go to the tree now?" asked Bruno. "I have the star!"

Just then, they ran into Gordon. He couldn't find a big Christmas tree!

There would be no place to put Bruno's star! Thomas and his friends tried to help.

"I am green like a tree!" Percy said. "You can put the star on my chimney, Bruno."

"But your steam would block the star," Bruno pointed out.

Thomas tried the T. rex at the museum. It was big and tall.

"Sharp teeth and claws aren't very Christmassy," Bruno said.

"Maybe we can have Christmas without a tree," said Thomas.

"But everyone gets happy when they can see the tree," said Bruno. "That's why the tradition is important."

"I have an idea!" Thomas peeped.

Everyone could see Lookout
Mountain!

The engines got to work. Kana hung a long string of lights.

Carly and Sandy brought a huge star to the top of the mountain.

Bruno placed his star in the center of the new one.

Kana flipped a switch.
Electricity buzzed all around,
all the way to the top of Lookout Mountain.

Gordon hurried along, pulling the passengers behind him. They arrived just in time to see the mountain light up.

The passengers were so happy!
"They did it!" Clarabel exclaimed.

The mountain looked like a giant Christmas tree!
At the top of the mountain, Thomas asked,
"What do you think, Bruno?"
"I think this is my favorite new Christmas tradition!" said Bruno.
